Covid-19 Pandemic - Transportation Disclaimer

The global pandemic of the novel Corona virus ("Covid-19") has had an exceptionally strong impact on the demand for vessel space, with serious implications for the global availability of spare capacity in the sea freight market. On the other hand, most airlines have either suspended or severely reduced their flights. Accordingly, the loading capacity in the passenger aircraft is eliminated and only limited capacity is available in the form of freighter flights. Should Covid-19 result in a limited or delayed transport process, we would therefore like to point out as a precautionary measure that this is an unavoidable event (force majeure) and that Wuxi Yushou Medical Appliances Co.,Ltd. must therefore refuse liability for possible consequences (e.g. for the non-provision of services, 11.14.1. Delay in delivery for transportation reasons).

Under the current pandemic special conditions, these additional transportation costs has to be paid 100% in advance to the company. Accurate price will be announced 5 days before the related goods production is ready for shipment.
