Dear [REDACTED]

Your article has been sent for posting as an Early Online Release. It should be available online within two to three business days. If you selected to have the full article text posted in response to the required question when you uploaded your revision then the final accepted version of the peer-reviewed manuscript will be available to subscribers. If you opted out of posting the full text then only the title, author list, and abstract will be available for searching and viewing.

Note: Corrections will not be made to the Early Online Release manuscript. You will be able to make minor corrections for the final published version when you receive your author proof.

Thank you for publishing in Monthly Weather Review.

Best,
AMS Publications
