Příloha 1

Seznam Výrobků a výše POS [OBCHODNÍ TAJEMSTVÍ]

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased by 1.2 billion, from 1.1 billion in 1980 to 2.3 billion in 1999. The number of people aged 15 years and over has increased by 1.1 billion, from 1.1 billion in 1980 to 2.2 billion in 1999.

There are a number of reasons why the world population is growing so rapidly. One of the main reasons is that the number of children born to each woman has increased. In 1980, the average woman in the world had 2.5 children. In 1999, the average woman in the world had 2.7 children. This is a small increase, but it is enough to make a big difference over time.

Another reason why the world population is growing so rapidly is that the number of people who are surviving to old age has increased. In 1980, the average person in the world lived for 55 years. In 1999, the average person in the world lived for 65 years. This is a big increase, and it is one of the main reasons why the world population is growing so rapidly.

There are a number of other reasons why the world population is growing so rapidly. For example, the number of people who are moving from rural areas to cities has increased. This is because there are more jobs in cities, and cities are more attractive than rural areas. This is also one of the reasons why the world population is growing so rapidly.

There are a number of other reasons why the world population is growing so rapidly. For example, the number of people who are moving from developing countries to developed countries has increased. This is because there are more jobs in developed countries, and developed countries are more attractive than developing countries. This is also one of the reasons why the world population is growing so rapidly.

There are a number of other reasons why the world population is growing so rapidly. For example, the number of people who are moving from the developing world to the developed world has increased. This is because there are more jobs in the developed world, and the developed world is more attractive than the developing world. This is also one of the reasons why the world population is growing so rapidly.
